

PSE&G Direct Install Program for Government Facilities

As part of its New Jersey Board of Public Utilities (BPU) approved Economic Stimulus Funding, Public Service Electric and Gas Company (PSE&G) is offering the Direct Install Program for Government Facilities. The Program is designed to reduce carbon emissions by helping customers lower their energy consumption. The program will achieve this goal through the direct installation of cost-effective energy savings measures, as recommended by an on-site energy audit. The Program will provide financing of the customer's share of the project cost as a part of their PSE&G bill. PSE&G will pay for 80% of the installation and equipment costs, and the customer will be responsible for paying the remaining 20% through their PSE&G bill.

This Program will provide a free on-site energy audit, performed by PSE&G's authorized contractor, to municipal, local, county, and state government offices; courtrooms; town halls; police and fire stations; sanitation department buildings; transportation department structures; regional authorities; schools; community centers; county or regionally structured bodies such as county colleges; and regional utility authorities (waster/sewer). Based on the audit report results, the customer can choose to install energy efficiency measures, which would be provided by PSE&G's contractor.

The Program is being offered to Municipal, Local, County, and State Government entities, who receive natural gas and/or electricity from PSE&G, with an average annual peak demands of less than 200 kW. Customers with annual peak demand in excess of 200 kW will be considered for this program on a case-by-case basis.

How the Program Works

The Direct Install Program for Government Facilities provides eligible customers with a walk-through energy evaluation, a report of recommended energy efficiency improvements, including cost estimates for the proposed work, and installation services for the energy efficiency improvements. Once the customer (or landlord) and PSE&G review the energy savings and cost estimates, PSE&G and/or its agent will work with the customer to schedule the installation or adjust the scope of work to offer the best value to the customer.

PSE&G will initially provide 100% of the cost to install the recommended energy efficiency measures. Customers will repay 20% of the total cost to PSE&G, interest free, over two years or in one lump sum on their PSE&G bill. Typical energy efficiency improvements available through this program include lighting, refrigeration, and HVAC upgrades.

Additional Program Information

Customers will be asked to sign a form to authorize PSE&G's contractor to provide the audit services and, where applicable, a landlord permission form will also be required if the customer is a tenant and the landlord must authorize the work to be performed. If the customer agrees to proceed with the audit proposal, the customer will be required to sign an installation contract and repayment agreement.
